KRIS-KROSS

LAUGHS

Stan: How did you blow that tire?
Dan: I ran over a milk bottle.
Stan: Didn't you see it in time?
Dan: No. The stupid kid had it under his coat.

GIGGLE!

A magician used to saw his wife in half at the end of his act. They retired and opened a dairy store. The sign over the door reads: "Milk sold by the half gal."

He: No woman ever made me look stupid!
She: Who did, then?

THEE

Bad Ne

Question: Why did the deep-sea diver tip-toe around the ocean floor?
Answer: He didn't want to disturb the nervous wrecks.

Little Joe found his father's Army dog tags in the attic. His mother explained to him what they were. The next day, Joe showed them to his friends.
 "See these?" he said.
 "They were my Dad's. He used to wear them when he was a dog."

GUFFAW!

When Mrs. Nelson became rich, she decided to have her portrait painted. The artist worked for months. Mrs. Nelson went to his studio every week to pose for him. Finally it was ready. Mrs. Nelson looked at the painting.
 "It's awful!" she said. "I look like a pig!"
 "Well," the artist said, "you should have thought of that before you gave me the job."

Customer: There's a fly in the bottom of my teacup! What is the meaning of this?
Waiter: How should I know? I'm a waiter, not a fortune-teller.

SNICKER!
